

Public Officials From 3 Counties Boost For Southwest Highway To St. Louis

If enthusiasm, determination and unity of purpose counts for anything, the Southwest Highway from Chicago to St. Louis, is an assured fact in the not remote future. At a meeting of the Manhattan branch of the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce held in Grange Hall, at Manhattan on Monday evening, the 23rd of March over 500 Southwest Highway "Boosters" assembled to voice their opinions on the need for such a highway and to bring its accomplishment to a speedy realization. The wonderful more remarkable because it was called on a scant 4 days notice. Advice from Springfield indicated that the time was propitious, if immediate action were taken, to push the project of the extension of the Southwest Highway from the Cook County terminal south of Orland Park on through Will, Kane and Livingston counties to connect up with the northern terminal of a route already approved and under construction from St. Louis to Sauemin. Accordingly, Chairman Eugene Hoerrman and E. L. Wilson of the Manhattan organization, after consultation with president W. R. Schussler, secretary Sherman S. Knox and treasurer, Wm. Beagley at Orland Park issued the call for the meeting and made all the necessary arrangements.

When Chairman Hoerrman called the meeting to order and turned the gavel over to President Schussler every available inch of space in the Grange Hall was occupied. President Schussler proceeded to call the various supervisors and mayors present to seats on the platform. The response indicated that officialdom of every township and village along the proposed right of way was behind the project. The following list, which is by no means complete, represents the type of backing behind this movement: Supervisors Robinson, Greenough, Linton and Walsh of Livingston County; Kilbride, Mayo and Brung of Kane County; Francis, Baskerville, Gerdes and Kinsella of Will County. Mayors and Village Presidents: F. Jones, Manhattan; Rittlinger, Sauemin; Smith, Emmington; J. Jones, Symerton; Ruceli, Chicago Ridge; Hoffman, Essex and Oesterle of Reddick. In addition to the above were noted Ira M. Lish, State Senator from Sauemin and Editors R. J. Schutz of Emmington and R. E. Seely of Manhattan.

During the course of the various speakers the following points in regard to the proposed extension of the Southwest Highway were brought out: That the route as proposed will be the most direct route from Chicago to St. Louis, thereby cutting off many miles of travel and hours of time; that it will be a "safety-first" highway as it will parallel the Wabash right of way for the entire distance and in the few places where it will be necessary to cross the railroad, the under or over method will be used; that this road will open up a vast territory to direct communication with Chicago and St. Louis and that it will relieve the congestion on route 4; and that it will be necessary to secure authorization for only about forty miles to make the Southwest a reality as the road is already completed or under construction from Chicago to Marley on the north and from Sauemin in Livingston County to St. Louis on the south.

The completion of this road will open up entirely new territory along the Wabash and will be one more outlet to Chicago and a great arterial highway for the World's Fair in 1933.

The following resolution was adopted:

"That representatives from the various towns interested, together with the officers of the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce and the senators and representatives of the districts meet with Gov. Emerson and the State Highway Department as soon as such a meeting can be arranged to present the necessary petitions and arguments to gain the completion of the Southwest Highway."

President Schussler invited the representation of every community represented at the meeting to join the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce and become units of that organization which was unanimously accepted. About 80 new members have been signed up so far.

The general feeling after the meeting broke up was this—"That the Southwest Highway is as good as built."

Following the meeting, coffee and doughnuts were served. The following delegation from Orland Park attended the meeting: Dr. W. R. Schussler, president; Dr. Sherman S. Knox, Secretary; Wm. Beagley, treasurer; Edgar Cooper, Ike Cleveland, George Cox, George Yunker, John Schmaedeke and John Loebe.

Mokena Wins Honor At Flower Show

The Mokena Garden Club's exhibit at the Flower show in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago this week, won a honorable mention ribbon on their "Garden Retreat". This was unexpected as the small sum they had to expend for their work, com-

An Open Letter to Senator Lewis

Mokena, Ill., March 23, 1931.
Hon. J. Hamilton Lewis,
U. S. Senate,
Washington, D. C.

I have been an advocate of the election of President and Vice-President of the United States by direct vote of the People for over forty years. In that time I have talked with thousands of voters who believe as I do, in a Constitutional Amendment giving the People the right to cast their ballot for their choice of candidate.

I believe that both parties would take more care in the nominating of the two candidates for President and Vice-President if the voter could split his ticket, take for an example the election of 1924. Davis was a good, capable man but Bryan cost him two or three million votes.

I would also suggest that another amendment to the Constitution, would be changing the mode of ratification of the amendments to the Constitution, after Passage by Congress they should go before the people for ratification.

I am placing these suggestions before you and trust that you will give both items your best and most earnest consideration and give us a government for the People and by the People. Wishing you the very best of success and hoping to see you our next Vice-President, I remain yours for Democratic success next year.

Wreath Disappears From Mokena Hall

The hanging of a floral wreath on the Mokena village hall a few weeks ago, resulted in a warm hunt for the jokers and finally one of the party who hung up the wreath developed a yellow back and squealed on his companions, who were said to be railroad men. The matter was reported to the Rock Island officials by a certain business man of Mokena and an official of that railroad came here last Thursday to investigate the matter, but nothing came of it. The wreath was as mysteriously removed from the hall as it was put up.

Too bad that so much interest was taken in hunting down the jokers and reporting such trivial matters to the Rock Island when notorious bootleg joints are allowed to run unmolested in Mokena.

Bunco Party at Orland Dist. School Success

A bunco party as held last Friday evening in the school house in District No. 139, Cleve, Holstein district, in Orland township. Five prizes were awarded and a wonderful lunch was served. About $6 worth of home made candy was sold. Mrs. Cleve, Holstein made the candy and certainly knows how! Miss Wesse is the teacher of this school, and is one of the best and most popular this district has had in many years, and they have had some extra good instructors, too.

New Lenox To Elect Supervisor

New Lenox township will have a full town ticket to vote on this year at the town election Tuesday April 7th. The following offices and candidates are to be voted for: Supervisor: Fred Francis; Constable, A. M. Walsh; School trustee, Ray Osmus.

The polling place will be in the Colonial Hall in New Lenox.

To Hold Community Sale Next Monday

The new community sale plan, outlined in last week's issue will be held Monday March 30 on the B. F. Sayers farm on Wolf Road in Orland township, starting 10 a. m. A full line of stock and articles are offered. Read the ad in this issue for particulars. Fred E. Yunker of Orland is the manager of the sale and Edw. Schmaedeke and Chas. Erickson of Orland are the auctioneers.

FRANKFORT TWP. TO VOTE MORE HARD ROADS

Frankfort township will have a brief ballot as far as town officers go, on April 7th, as only a school trustee and a constable are to be chosen. Jacob P. Bauch is the candidate for school trustee.

But the special ballot on a hard road proposition more than make up for the briefness of the town office ballot, for 12 pieces of road are included in this proposition. The vote is to be for or against an annual tax for a period of 5 years of 20 cents on each $100 assessed valuation of all taxable property in the town of Frankfort, including railroads for the purpose of constructing and maintaining rock macadam roads 10 feet wide and 8 inches deep.

The roads to be voted on are as follows:

BETTENHAUSEN ROAD
1. The road beginning at the Northeast corner of Section 11, and extending South to the Indian Boundary Line thence paralleling the Indian Boundary Line to the Southwest and ending at a stone road in the line of Southeast Quarter of Section 14, about 1 1/4 miles.

BARLOW ROAD
2. The road beginning at the Northeast corner of the Southwest corner of Section 13, thence East about 1/4 mile.

STELLWAGEN ROAD
3. The road beginning near the center of Section 23 thence North about 1/4 mile.

MINGER ROAD
4. The road beginning at the Northeast corner of the Southeast Quarter of Section 28 thence West about 1/4 mile.

SCHOOL ROAD
5. The road beginning at the Northeast corner of Section 33 thence West about 1/4 mile.

KOHLHAGEN ROAD
6. The road beginning at the Lincoln Highway near the center of the South 1/4 Section 20 thence South about 3/4 mile and ending about 40 rods North of the center of Section 29.

KLOSE ROAD
7. The road beginning at the Northwest corner of the Southwest Quarter of Section 3, thence East about 1/4 mile.

WARNING ROAD
8. That part of a road beginning at the Yunker Road in the center of the North 1/4 of Section 17, and extending North into Section 8, a total distance of 70 rods.

EGGERS ROAD
9. That road beginning at the Northwest corner of the Southwest Quarter of Section 6, thence South about 3-4 mile.

SIEVERT ROAD
10. That road beginning about 1/4 mile North of the Southwest corner of Section 35, thence South about 1/4 mile, thence east about 1/4 mile.

KEUSTER ROAD
11. That road beginning about 1/4 mile North of the Southwest corner of Section 36, thence South about 1/4 mile thence east 3-4 mile whenever the township officials of Green Garden agree to a fifty-fifty division of the cost of construction.

LAUFFER ROAD
12. That road beginning near the Northeast corner of Section 3, thence West about 3-4 mile to the end of the present stone road whenever the township officials of Orland Township agree to a fifty-fifty division of the cost of construction.

Orland Legion Will Direct Easter Egg Hunt

Easter Sunday afternoon the Orland Park Legion Post are planning an Easter Egg Hunt for the children of the community. All children up to 12 years are eligible to take part in the contest. Hundreds of colored Easter eggs will be hidden in a given territory and the children of the community will get them.

There will be a big time for the children. The rules and contests and all details will be made known later. Comrade Herman Nicolai is chairman of the committee in charge of the Easter Hunt. All wishing to contribute eggs will please turn them over to him, "Doc" says he will take them colored or white.

Tinley Women's Choir to Make Debut

The Tinley Park Triangle Club has the great honor of presenting the debut of the Tinley Park Woman's Choir, who are being guided under the able leadership of Alexander Corado, well known baritone of Tinley Park and the assistance of his talented wife. There are 22 beautiful voices in this ensemble.

It will be the most brilliant piece of entertainment yet to be given at Tinley Park. Here's a tip "Don't miss it." The date is April 16 and 17. Reserved seat tickets may be purchased at Dim's Ice Cream Parlor, in Tinley Park.

Only 1 Candidate In Orland Twp. Election

The Orland township election will be a very tame affair this year as only a school trustee is to be elected. C. F. Burkhardt is the only candidate so far for this office. Election is April 7th.

Special Holy Week Services at Orland M.E.

There will be special services at the Orland Park M. E. Church every night during Holy Week. There will be a special service to commemorate each day of Christ's Life during His last week on earth.

This Sunday being Palm Sunday will be given over to the sacraments of baptism and the reception of members into the church. There will be a service of baptism for infants and children. There will also be a class of about 30 new members coming into the church.

Monday evening at 8 p. m. Rev. Mr. Coates of Lemont will conduct the service of dedication opening the services of the week. The choir will render special music.

Tuesday evening will be the service of consecration. Rev. Jones of Worth will be the speaker of the evening. Royal Glahn will give some special violin selections.

The Wednesday evening service will be the service of Fellowship and Prayer. The speaker of the evening will be from Chicago. He will be announced later.

The informal service of Holy Communion will be held Thursday evening in commemoration of the last supper Jesus had with his disciples. This will be a special service with special music by the choir.

On Friday evening will be the annual Good Friday candle service when the events of Christ's last week will be told in song and story. There will be no service on Saturday evening. On Sunday morning there will be the regular Easter morning service and the celebration of the formal communion service.

All members and friends are urged and invited to attend these services.

Tinley Triangles To Present Play

Hello, folks! I have just heard some startling news and want to let you in on it. (Big hearted me!)

Its about the play "The Triangle Club of Tinley Park have been planning for so many months. It will be presented on the nights of April 16 and 17 which fall on a Thursday and Friday.

The title of the play is "It Happened in Hollywood". It is a three act comedy-drama with a touch of romance running thru it. (Doesn't that sound nice for this season of the year?)

The Club has been fortunate in obtaining Jules Heidenrick, an actor and director of experience. His most recent success was a play produced at Mokena, a town which we are familiar with in this community. (They are saying great things of Mr. Heidenrick out there after witnessing that play)

Tinley Woman Active In coming Flower Show

The 3rd District Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs Garden Dept. of which Mrs. Wallace B. Combs of Tinley Park, is the chairman, met at the home of Mrs. Jas. Griffith of 6731 Union ave., last Friday to formulate plans for the flower show to be held in Wieboldt's Store 63rd and Green streets in early June.

Besides Mrs. Griffith who is the garden representative for the Englewood Woman's Club there were present delegates from Hamilton Park, Gage Park, Chicago Heights, Chicago Lawn, Clearing, Brainerd, Greater Garden Group, Gresham, Oak Forest and Ogden Park.

Mrs. Arthur Lassman is the secretary and Mrs. Earl Leannon, treasurer. Activities arranged for the coming months will be nursery in DesPlaines, a day in June with Mrs. Walter Seymour in her summer home, Lakewood, Mich., Labor Day week end to be spent in Camp Petage, Mears, Mich., as guests of Mrs. Paul Seymour, whose husband by the way is authority on auction bridge and writes for the Daily News while Mrs. Seymour conducts this distinctive camp for girls during the summer months. Archery canoeing and horseback riding are some of the athletics indulged in. The garden outing in the Forest Preserve, October 9th and there is to be a day in May at Brookwood viewing the wild flowers with a chicken dinner at noon.

Mokena P. T. A. News

The Mokena P. T. A. held their monthly meeting Tuesday, March 24. Mrs. E. Krapp talked of her travels in Europe and many interesting cards, jewelry and linens were passed around for inspection. Mrs. Krapp's talk was enjoyed by all present.

A check was given to Miss Krusemark for new books for the library. A card party will be given shortly after Easter for the benefit of the landscape Comm. for shrubs around the school building.

Our next meeting will be April 28. Come, we are sure you will enjoy it.

3 Candidates for Mokena Directorship

The Mokena school election is claiming much attention at this time Roy Krapp, Harvey Reab and J. H. Nordsell are candidates for this office. The election will be held Saturday April 11th.

The term of Richard Hensel expires this year and he is not a candidate for re-election.

Mokena Sewer Objectors Score Big Legal Victory; Outcome of Case Depends on Village Election

The Mokena sewer objectors have scored a very significant victory in the legal phase of the fight against the proposed sewer system. This splendid victory was brought about thru the good work of the attorneys for the objectors. They gained many continuances and filed scores of legal objections. When the final legal objections were being filed on Monday, Judge Henry F. Ruel decided that it was only a waste of money for court costs and attorneys fees to carry on the sewer fight in court with the village election near at hand with a prospect of the sewer being knocked out. He felt that no further court action should be taken until the outcome of the election is known. Judge Ruel asked the Local Board of Improvements to consider the matter and report to him by Thursday afternoon to decide whether they wanted to go ahead with the case in court or wait until after the village election, April 21st.

The Mokena Local Board of Improvements met Wednesday and decided not to go ahead with the case but await the outcome of the election and so reported to Judge Ruel Thursday afternoon. This means a big victory for the objectors. If the new board is elected the sewer will be knocked out and the case will be dismissed the day after election.

Attorney Edward Nadelhoffer made a motion in court Thursday if the sewer case should ever be resumed that the judge and attorneys come to Mokena and look over the grounds where the proposed sewer is to be laid.

40 Objections Filed
A list of forty legal objections were filed Monday afternoon. Here are a few of the high lights:

"The cost of excavating soil, disposal of back filling for the pump house foundations is not mentioned in the estimates."

"There is no estimate of cost for the electric switchboard at the treating plant."

"Ordinance provides that all joints of the sewer to be laid shall be of three kinds, asphaltum compound, cold asphaltum compound, mineral fibre and pre-formed asphalt gasket, but the estimate of cost provides for the estimated cost of only asphaltum joints."

Says Estimate Has Been Padded

One of the legal objections makes the charge that a part of the estimate has been "padded" and reads: "That the quantities of the several sizes of sewer pipe provided for to be laid is grossly in excess of the actual amount necessary for said sewer construction and that said estimate has been 'padded.'"

Charges Fraud Has Been Committed
Another legal objection referring to the McIntosh addition to Mokena charges a fraud as follows:

"That a fraud was committed by the trustees of said village requiring lateral sewers to be placed in said addition as the ordinance providing for the same, was passed for the sole purpose of thereby reducing pro rata the assessment against the lots in the village proper as to $20-300 the cost of the sewerage disposal plant, and that there is no justification or need in having said lateral sewer in said addition."

The Rock Island railroad thru their attorneys Snapp, Heise & Snapp, filed an additional objection as follows:

"And now comes the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad by leave of court first had and obtained, amends its legal objections heretofore filed herein by adding the following:

"That all the land of said railway company assessed in the proceeding is owned and used by the objector solely and exclusively for railway right-of-way and railroad

Defeat Special Assessment Crowd, Say Mokena Voters

It is up to the people of Mokena who desire to knock out the sewer and with it the special assessment crowd, to bestir themselves and leave no stone unturned to assure the election of the new board on Tuesday, April 21st. Get all your friends to lineup for the new board candidates, whose names will appear on the Independent No. 2 ticket on the village election ballot. Mark every square in front of each of the following candidates names, leaving the circle alone:

President Board of Trustees, John C. Nielsen.
For Village Trustees: George Koeller, Wm. Semmler and Milton Krapp. Vote for all four of these.

The special assessment crowd must be defeated, and defeated badly, if Mokena is to see any progress within the next twenty years. Other towns are opposing the special assessment racket and it is up to Mokena to vote solidly against the candidates who are working so hard to put over this life-time burden on Mokena.

The opposition side admits the fight is going to be hot but they are making their brags that they are going to win and that they will build the sewer. It is up to the people of Mokena to show them that they are mistaken and kick them to a frazzle.

Do not listen to all the propaganda that is being spread to befuddle the issue and to get people to vote for the old crowd. Do not be deceived by any fairy tales anyone may tell you favoring the sewer. Let no one intimidate you either.

A number of people who signed petitions against the sewer have suddenly developed a yellow streak and have flopped over and signed another petition asking that their names be removed from said anti-sewer petition. If you have signed the anti-sewer petition, be a man or woman enough to stand by what you have signed and let no one turn you. Those who signed, did so of their own free and voluntary act.

The sewer crowd has its back up against the wall, and is fighting desperately. The big victory of the objectors in court, has been a heavy blow to the sewer crowd. The biggest and final knockout must be delivered at the ballot box. Remember you do not have to tell anyone how you are going to vote, but when you are in the booth, you can cast your ballot as your conscience dictates.

It is high time that Mokena gets a new village board and now is the opportunity for the voters of Mokena to put in such a board. The voters slogan is: Defeat the Mokena Special Assessment Crowd."

Want Books Audited

The Mokena school board received a letter from State Supt. of Public Instruction, Francis Blair at Springfield the past week, enclosing a copy of a letter minus the name of the writer, asking that an audit be made of the books of the local school district No. 159. Elmer L. Cooper, one of the school board member, states that the Board heartily welcomes an audit of the board's books at any time, that they have nothing to hide and that every thing is correct and above board.

trackage purposes and for no other purpose and that none of said land assessed will be specially benefited at all or in any manner by said proposed improvement." The above quotations are taken from the court records.

"Easter" Celebrations Among the Indians

THE SUN GOD OF THE KATKINAS

(Pictures from publications of the Bureau of American Ethnology, Smithsonian Institution.)

By EDITHA L. WATSON

NO TIME of all the year is more popular than Easter. In some ways, it is more like the beginning of a new year than New Year's day itself. Led up to it by the forty days of Lent, we greet the Easter dawn joyously, as a period of complete change. We have made plans: right after Easter we'll do this or that. We've bought new clothing, and had a hearty Easter breakfast, and there will be special music at church. Children romp around with gleeful faces, pleased with the amusing rabbits, chickens, and eggs which have been given them. It is a day of happiness, following forty days of restraint.

All this is custom, as old as religion itself. It goes back beyond the ancient times when new life was symbolized by little young creatures. It goes far beyond Christianity, back to the days when men lived in caves, perhaps, and the sun and their fires were the highest objects of their veneration. It goes back to the source of all religion, and to religion's two fundamental parts, fear and joy.

In the Old world, this ancient worship developed and accumulated ceremonies, tabus, and customs, until it reached its final glory in Christianity. Here was the apotheosis of that distant reverence. Here was the cave-man's fire, which meant light and life to him, become a living soul who spoke in the name of the Power above all. Here was a wonder and a mystery of which these low-browed ancients never dreamed, developed as man himself developed, reaching its zenith when mankind had advanced far enough to realize it—and yet the germ of it all, the seed from which it grew, the first faint idea of God, began away back there with the beginning of mankind.

In the New world, that same dim spark which was to become the Light of the World, glowed in much the same way. It must be confessed that drawing parallels between Christianity and the religious beliefs of other peoples is an interesting but hardly profitable study. It is said that the Bible may be quoted to prove both sides of any argument, and in the same way, it is only too easy to find religious parallels.

Whether or not one believes in the Hebrew origin of American Indians (as some do), it is easy to show that the ideas of the Indians and those of the Old world people have run parallel to each other. Sometimes, of course, the resemblance is slight, and unless one were a fanatic on the subject, would be unthought of; but at other times there is a remarkable likeness which sets one wondering.

For instance, there is the legend of the great and good man, the wise law-giver, who was of virgin birth. A similar story to that of Jesus may be traced, not uneventfully, through legends from Indian tribes. His birth, his teachings, and his final disappearance from the scene (though the Indian teacher was not crucified nor killed by them) are told in many a myth, and while he is made into a most truly Indian personality, the resemblance is plain.

The Aztec Quetzalcoatl, who is very nearly the same as the Maya god Kukulcan, is also one of the Indian legendary people who resemble the Christian Jesus very closely. He is believed by many scientists to have been an actual man; the idea is also advanced that he may have been an apostle, possibly Thomas. Until something more can be proved to add to what little we know on the subject, one man's guess is as good as another's. And the truth, perhaps, runs far afield from these theories.

But it is to the more primitive religion, the cult of sun and fire, that we must turn, even here, for our parallels: Sun and fire, those two necessary elements of life, worshiped as the gifts of that Great Mystery whom they symbolized.

As with the ancients of the other hemisphere, fear played an important part in religion. What if the sun should go so far away that it would never return? What if the fires should be extinguished, and no feeble spark would come, with all their coaxing, to bring new life to the people?

Those early men were not afraid to experiment, however. Their faith was even greater than their fear. When the sun went as far south as they dared see it go, they would call it back; their firm belief would work the miracle, they hoped. And they even dared to extinguish their fires, trusting to that power which they knew pervaded all to give them a new spark.

In extinguishing their fires at such times, they were "killing" this object of their reverence with their own hands, as truly as the Christian Jesus was killed by his people. It is not sacrilegious to draw this parallel. They approached the time humbly and religiously, contrite, afraid—yet daring to hope. This was their religion, as true and as strong to them as ever a faith had been to any people.

This, then, was their Lent. Does it matter if this time of prayer and contrition, of abstinence and sorrow, was not observed just when we observe the parallel? Lent and Easter even now are conditions of the soul, not a season of the year, when we come down to it.

Then came the Indian Easter, a day as joyous in its significance as can be imagined. The object of their reverence was not dead, but lived and gave the new life of hope to the faithful! The sun turned back from his southward journey; the fire leaped again as the tiny new spark fell from the drill! Their God had not forsaken them; he lived!

Let us observe a few specific cases: Among the Hopi, it was felt that only a supreme effort would recall the sun, and in the kivas, in secret, the rites were performed. These people would not scoff at our rabbits, chicks, and eggs, once symbolic of new life, for they were given kernels of sprouting beans as they made their prayers of thanks.

The Chitimacha held a fast of six days during their rites in reverence to the sun. And at the last, after a ceremony of purification, there was a feast in honor of the sun at noon—risen to his greatest height, shining in his most splendid glory.

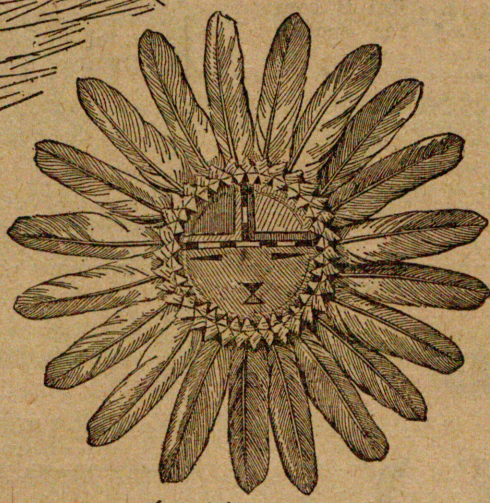

It is in the New Fire ceremonies, however, that we can see the strongest parallel with Lent and Easter. Fire, as such, was not worshiped, but as a symbol of the Lord of Life it was unsurpassed, and indeed, as such a symbol, it prevails in Christian churches, as in candles, in incense, and in a host of references to the radiance and the warmth of God's love.

The Hopi, who "called back" the sun, also kindled a New Fire. On this day, the streets were dark and deserted, women and children hid, and men engaged in prayer. All trails were symbolically closed, and no living thing dared enter. Every fire had been extinguished.

Then the new, sacred flame arose, and was distributed. It does not require a very vivid imagination to see, in this reverent ceremony, a shadowy forecast of the crucifixion and the resurrection, as caught by worshipping hearts across the distant seas. After all, every human being has a longing for something to adore, and a capacity for devotion. No matter whence we came, there is the same fundamental nature in us all.

In Mexico, the kindling of the New Fire was the occasion of a great national ceremony. On the eve of that important day, all the people were filled with fear that the priests would not be able to make the spark, and that as a consequence, they would be left fireless. However, the spark never failed to appear, and the New Fire was greeted with the usual joy. To quote Sahagun, "When the fire was made, the inhabitants renewed their installation, they gave great feasts and rejoicings, threw on the fire much incense . . ." They greeted their "Easter" dawn with happiness, their hearts full of reverence.

The Maya, whose calendar system is the wonder of scientists, allowed a period of five days at the end of each year to round out the time. This five-day period was called "xma kaba kin," or "days without name," and Pio Perez says, "Some call them . . . the sorrowful and laborious days." The Aztec also held these days in superstitious dread. As, on our New Year's day, some folk believe that what occurs then will happen for the rest of the year, so it was held that the events of the "xma kaba kin" would recur forever after, and quarreling was especially avoided during these five days, lest it should never cease.

This does not sound much like any sort of Lent, it is true. But at the end of each cycle (of a number of years), the Aztecs enacted a scene of sorrow and despair which far exceeds the Lenten observance of our modern times. The five unlucky days were filled with woe—it was believed that the end of the world was imminent—darkness and chaos would settle down, and there would be no more joy and love and laughter, forever.

Such a feeling as this must have ruled the hearts of the faithful who stood on Golgotha and watched the Light of the World fading from them. They, however, had the faith which kept them from utter despair, but it appears from their actions that the Aztecs were not blessed with even the faintest ray of hope.

Images of household gods were broken—their power had departed. The holy fires, untended, expired, and none were lit in the homes, so that hearts were cheerless and food was cold. Furniture and utensils were destroyed and garments rent, in this frenzy of hopelessness. There was no order anywhere. It appeared as if chaos, rapidly approaching, already had become felt. The people, despairing, held an orgy of destruction.

At midnight of the last day, the test was made to determine whether this dread visitation was inevitable, or whether there might be a delay of another cycle before it came.

Breathlessly the people stood in darkness as the priests climbed to the summit of a lofty mountain. A human sacrifice, the fairest and finest gift they could make, was offered, and on the still-warm breast of this victim a new fire was kindled.

A human sacrifice! On the other side of the world there was a human sacrifice also—not repeated in every cycle, it is true, but holding in itself the awful symbolism of all the other victims of every creed and race. Who taught the Aztecs that a life departed from the world so that life might enter it? Here is a mystery to which we have no clew.

As the spark grew to a flame—a dancing, leaping flame, which could be seen throughout the city below, and over the countryside, the people became frenzied with delight at this message from the supernatural powers. Cries of joy and triumph arose on every hand, and every heart was filled for the first time with a sense of new life and hope.

Couriers, bearing torches lit at the saving beacon, ran among the people; fires began to glow again, and long before the sun arose on a newly saved land, there was happiness, and light, and warmth.

Now came the "Easter" period of rejoicing. Houses were cleaned, furniture replaced, games and dances occupied the days. And new clothing (which seems to be our most popular modern Easter observance) was seen everywhere.

And this is the story of Easter and Lent as they spoke their message to the pagan souls of the Indians. There may be those who still profess to see the devil's work here, and the literal-minded will perhaps ask, What has all this to do with the real Eastertide, celebrating the ascension of our Lord? Simply this—here, too, was an example of the power of Providence; here, too, it was shown that divine love would save the world. It is pleasant to know, as the Easter sunshine beams, that the sun had always returned from his southward journey and that fires may be extinguished without fear; that our land, from the earliest legendary days, has always been a place where hope was renewed and faith triumphed, and that the "divinity which shapes our ends" has always accepted contrition and forgiven sins.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

Can't PLAY
Can't REST

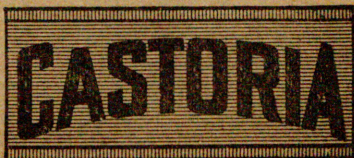

—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

MOKENA

The editor is in receipt of a copy of a magazine quarterly published by the North Dakota University at Grand Forks, North Dakota, in which appears a very interesting and lengthy article entitled "Race Prejudice in America", by A. R. Mangus, former pastor of the Mokena M. E. church and who is now an instructor in sociology in this University. The article is very scholarly and shows much research work and deep thinking and impartial reasoning.

A Box Social was held by the P. T. A. at the school auditorium Thursday evening. The proceeds will be used for the playground equipment fund.

Ruth, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lowe is quite ill at her parents' home.

The members of the Blue Bell and Gladioli units of the Junior Garden Club attended the Flower Show in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago Saturday and took in a talking movie also. The chaperons were Mrs. Eleanor Ferguson, Mrs. Harry Mall, Mrs. Albert Braun and Mrs. Arthur Hall. A delightful time was had by all.

Jack and Jimmie, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Horras have both been very ill with severe colds the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cooper and Rev. Sandall motored to St. Louis, last Saturday to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Neithammer.

Mrs. Tierney underwent an operation for appendicitis Tuesday in Silver Cross hospital.

A group of about 60 relatives celebrated the birthday of Andrew Wachter Saturday night. The evening was very pleasantly spent with dancing, singing and music. A Joliet orchestra furnished the music. Mr. Joseph Mosele of Lockport played a number of violin selections.

The star of the party was Miss Marion Bissonette, 8 year old radio artist of WIBO Television, who danced and sang.

Mr. Wachter is a photo engraver by trade and quite a number of photo engravers from Chicago attended the party.

The rooms were prettily decorated with streamers and a sumptuous luncheon was served. The guest list included: From Chicago: Mr. and Mrs. A. Lee, Fred Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Stoele, Adam Shuttler, Mr. and Mrs. Highland, Mr. and Mrs. Bissonette and daughters Jewel and Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. E. Merkel and son, Mr. and Mrs. John Schubert, From Joliet: Mr. and Mrs. Fessenden, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. F. Swartz, Mr. Willis Schubert, From Mokena: Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Klose and daughter Velma, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wachter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall, Miss Hulda Hellmuth and also several employees from Swift & Co., Chicago.

The will of the late John Liess, former village treasurer of Mokena, was admitted to probate by Judge Fred Adams of the Will County Probate Court last Tuesday. Mrs. Harvey Reab and Charles Liess have been appointed as executors of the estate.

Simon Hohenstein who is employed at the old Joliet Penitentiary reports a very exciting time during the big prison riot Saturday noon. He described the situation as very tense and exciting.

The Mokena School Playground Equipment committee has finished the job of compiling and securing the advertising of all the Mokena business firms on an unique advertising napkin which is now in the hands of the printers for completion. These unique napkins will be used at various social functions. The proceeds go to the playground equipment fund.

Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield has saved many lives in collisions

EVERY new Ford is equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof windshield. This is made so that the glass will not fly or splinter under the hardest impact. It has saved many lives and prevented injuries in many automobile collisions.

This shatter-proof glass windshield is just one of many features that make the new Ford a value far above the price. Others are the silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, sturdy steel body construction, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, extensive use of fine steel forgings, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, Rustless Steel, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

In addition, you save many dollars because of low first cost of the new Ford, low cost of operation and up-keep, and low yearly depreciation.

Like Tea . . . the best Gasoline is Blended

EVEN the Japanese maiden who laboriously picks the tea leaves knows that before you sip the delicate beverage from your cup, leaves of another type of tea must be added, for the best teas invariably are blended.

When the tea merchant takes a quantity of Japanese tea, a bit of China tea, and a touch of Ceylonese, then blends them according to the dictates of his expert knowledge, he parallels the making of CONOCO Gasoline. For this is a blended gasoline. It is blended because this is the only method which brings together in one fuel the desirable properties of several types of gasoline. No one type of gasoline can contain them all.

CONOCO refiners use: Natural Gasoline, for quick starting; Straight-run Gasoline, for power and long mileage; Cracked Gasoline, for its anti-knock properties.

There is no secret formula covering the elements which compose this triple-test gasoline. The secret is in the knowledge behind the blending. Knowing how makes one tea blend better than all others . . . and knowing how places one gasoline in a distinct quality class. Experience the performance advantages of CONOCO Balanced-Blend Gasoline. You'll find it wherever the CONOCO Red Triangle is displayed.

Bill Gassner Commits Suicide Tuesday Morning

A pale face staring out of the gloom near the ceiling of Kreis Bros. garage, was the first intimation that Bill Gassner could not open the door for anyone calling early Tuesday morning.

He looked as well as ever when Bill Kreis left the garage for home at 12:15 A. M. Tuesday. But at one o'clock when Kreis went to the garage in answer to an Oak Forest call for a tow truck, Gassner did not open the door to his repeated knocking. The garage man let himself in a side door.

The boiler room light was on but no one was there. Kreis was joined by Ed. Loving who had called for his car and together they searched the garage but found no trace of the night watchman. Inquiries at the poolroom nearby revealed nothing of his whereabouts. At a loss to account for the disappearance Mr. Kreis drove the tow truck to Oak Forest, got a crippled car out of a ditch there, and returned to the garage.

As he entered the office he looked back into the darkened garage and saw a man's head near the ceiling. The mystery was solved; Bill Gassner was dead.

At the coroner's inquest in Oak Forest Tuesday, it was learned that Gassner a year and a half ago had attempted suicide and consequent to the attempt was confined in Oak Forest for three months. Since then he had been night watchman in Kreis Bros. garage here.

The coroner's jury directed by Deputy coroner Laffan found death due to hanging with suicidal intent while in a despondent frame of mind.

The funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday from the Moore Hickey and Reiser undertaking establishment to Beverly cemetery.

Church Wedding in Oak Forest Saturday

A very pretty wedding took place Saturday evening at the M. E. church when Ruth Friess became the bride of Hollis Abbott.

Rev. R. H. Horten, who performed the ceremony, sang, "Oh Promise Me". The wedding march was played by Mrs. Horten.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin lace trimmed gown with a flowing veil and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses.

Martha Friess served her sister as bridesmaid and Miles Abbott, brother of the groom was best man. A reception for close friends and relatives was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Friess.

Ruth and Hollis are a popular young couple and we extend our best wishes to them for a long and happy wedded life. They will make their home on Waverly Ave. in Oak Forest.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING AND ELECTION

Notice is hereby given to the Legal Voters, residents of the Township of Bremen, County of Cook, Illinois, that the Annual Township Meeting and Election of said Township will take place TUESDAY the 7th Day of APRIL proximo, being the first Tuesday in said month.

The Election will begin at the hour of 6 A. M. and close at 4 P. M. in the places designated as follows: Precinct 1. Village Hall, Posen, Ill. Precinct 2. Johnson's Hall, Robbins, Ill.

Precinct 3. Donato's Barber Shop, 147th St., Midlothian, Ill.

Precinct 4. Fred Reali's Place, 147th & 48th Ave., Midlothian, Ill.

Precinct 5. Village Hall, Tinley Park, Ill.

Precinct 6. William Stehl's Place, 167th & Crawford Ave.

The officers to be elected are: One School Trustee.

The Town Meeting will open in Village Hall, Tinley Park, Ill., at the hour of 2 P. M., and after choosing a Moderator will proceed to hear and consider reports of officers, to appropriate money to defray the necessary expenses of the township, and to deliberate and decide on such measures as may, in pursuance of law, come before the meeting.

Given under my hand this 18th day of March, A. D. 1931.

EDWARD A. REIMER, Township Clerk.

TAX BOOKS OUT

Although we have the complete figures of the tax levy of 1929, the lack of space prohibits their publication this week. There is one remarkable feature Midlothian taxes are lower than 1928—the other towns are higher. The tax collector, Wm. H. Fleischhauer, has the books of all but Tinley Park and Oak Forest. Complete figures will be printed next week.

CRASH AT 43rd AVE.

About 1 a. m. Sunday a Ford crashed into a culvert at 43rd ave., while going at a high rate of speed. Two young men from Blue Island were in the car, one of whom received a fracture of the hip. He was taken to Oak Forest and then to St. Francis hospital by Midlothian boys but their names were not obtained. Kreis Bros. towed in the car.

Forest Ridge Garden Club Gets 8 Ribbons

The Garden Club of Forest Ridge received eight ribbons on the exhibits entered in the Garden Show at the Merchandise Mart.

In the Junior department, Lucy Trumpey received a blue ribbon on her arrangement of flowers for a teacher's desk.

Four Ribbons for Midlothian

A first, second third and honorable mention ribbons were received on the posters entered by the children of the Midlothian school.

An honorable mention ribbon was received on the tea table exhibit arranged by Mrs. P. M. Wenstrand and also on the living room flower arrangement exhibit by Mrs. E. Sharp.

Red Ribbon For Garden

The 10 x 20 foot Old Fashioned garden was awarded a red ribbon. This exhibit was worked on by Mrs. Hodgman chairman, Mrs. F. L. Tauter, Mrs. C. Mulholland, Mrs. C. W. Roelle, Mrs. S. G. Ohrvall, Mrs. E. Sharp and Mrs. C. E. Smith.

It goes without saying that the entire membership of this club is very much elated over these ribbons. Mrs. W. St. Germain, assisted by Mrs. A. W. Travis and Mrs. C. Moore had charge of the Junior exhibits.

Minstrel Show Date Set for April 14, 15th

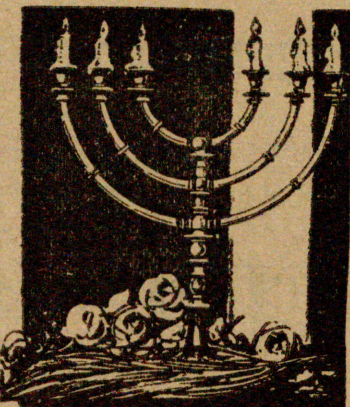

The minstrel show given by the Midlothian Lions and Legion with the Tinley Park Lions, will be presented at the Midlothian auditorium April 14 and 15 it was definitely decided Tuesday night.

Three rehearsals of parts were held this week—on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The work is being entered upon enthusiastically and everything points to a very successful affair—providing Lion Mills fine soprano doesn't disturb the neighbors too much.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

We are in a position to take care of all undertaking calls, ambulance work and details of funeral service in this section.

The most modern in equipment is now placed at your disposal. Under supervision and management of William A. Goodale of the Goodale Funeral Home of Lockport.

The Mud of Midlothian

While believing that the present political parties are all right in their way, Uncle Casey is persuaded that their scope is more limited than it should be. They do not recognize the need of offices other than those for which they nominate candidates.
To break the ice, Uncle Casey pro poses the following candidates and offices for them to fill.

Night Constable—John Vacca: he goes to work on the 5:52 and comes home on the 9:23, so he might as well stay up all night too.

Train Despatcher—Frank Allen; he has enough faith in the Rock Is land's schedule to take the 7:35 again despite its past misdeeds.

Town Crier—J. E. Entrop; he knows more things about the village to cry over than even the editor of this sheet.

Campfire Boy—Frank Lilly; the only man in its vicinity who can think of the Gardens Water System without swearing. . . . In all prob ability that is a lie.

Town Banker—Sam Wilson; he has as much money outstanding as a bank so why not call him a bank er.

Leading Resident—To play safe,
Uncle Casey recommends someone living in Mokena or New Lenox.

Town Knocker—Happy. . . ? . . .
conductor on the 5:35; ask him what he thinks of Midlothian and you'll know why.

Town Booster—died five years ago.

Furthermore Uncle Casey believ es that neither party's platform quite covers the situation in this village.
Therefore he proposes the following.

More sympathy for the Gardens Water Board and more water for the Robertson water system.

Annexation of Robbins—what this village needs is a little more color.

A complete village board for every smoker on the Rock Island—all the boys need is organization.

A political job for every college graduate in the village—poor devils.

The height of cleanliness was at tained last week when John Lerner was seen with a kitchen broom, sweeping the cinder walk in front of his house.

Who said Tinley Park is a town of bad eggs? And what did he mean?

Dear Uncle:
Where was the "Watchdog of Midlothian" when the Sweet Shop was robbed?

Anxious Resident.
Ans: Dont be anxious; you weren't seen.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Hiram L. Williamson, Secretary of the Illinois Page Association.

Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets appeared before the road and bridge committee of the house of representatives recently and urged the passage of bills permitting the state to construct belt lines and to pay its share of the cost of state roads through all cities. Discussing the bills Mr. Sheets said: "Over 900 miles of city streets will fall under the provisions of this legislation, and when the work of maintenance, construction, reconstruction and the construction of belt lines has been completed, most of the inconveniences both to through traffic and to local residents in cities will have been eliminated."

Cook county has recently paid $750,000 more of its 1928 taxes to the state treasury.

The senate elections committee has reported favorably the bill introduced by Senator Victor P. Michel, changing the date of the state primary from April to September.

Lieut. Gov. James H. Price of Virginia addressed a joint session of the general assembly March 4, at which time he extended an invitation to residents of the state to attend the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of Yorktown next October.

Joseph M. Page, veteran newspaper man of Jerseyville and prominent Democrat, was honored by the house of representatives recently when Representative Homer J. Tice presented a resolution naming the bridge over the Illinois river at Hardin the "Joe Page Bridge." It was adopted unanimously. Mr. Page came to Illinois following the Civil war, has been editor of the Jerseyville Democrat 50 years, and has served his county for more than 40 years as master in chancery. He is eighty-six years of age and he and Mrs. Page will soon observe their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

Owners of property in Illinois will be permitted to pay their taxes in two installments if bills introduced recently by Senator Florence Fifer Rohrer of Bloomington, become laws. Under the terms of the bills, all taxes on property other than special assessments and special taxes may be paid in two equal installments and become due in March and April and September and October. Provision is made for any taxpayer who desires so to do, to pay his taxes all at one time.

Perfect scores for February were made by 32 hens in the state egg laying contest being held by the state department of agriculture at Quincy, Kankakee and Murphysboro.

Employees of State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett are looking for 22 coupons from stolen highway bonds out of more than 71,000 being received at the office. Last fall thieves secured $90,000 of the bonds from the home of Senator R. V. Graham of Chicago. Eight of the coupons turned up from a Davenport (Iowa) bonding house, and it is expected that the others will soon appear, and it may be possible to locate the bonds through the coupons.

An attack on the franchise law of the state brought by the St. Louis Southwestern Railway company has resulted in the law being declared unconstitutional by three federal judges who heard the case. The decision necessitates the enactment of a new bill by the Illinois legislature unless an appeal is carried up and is successful. It is a matter of vast importance to the state and affects many other cases pending in the courts.

A two-story dormitory capable of housing 160 prisoners has been completed at Stateville on the honor farm, according to Col. Frank D. Whipp, state superintendent of prisons. Addressing the men at the farm, Colonel Whipp told them it was up to them whether they make good or betray the confidence reposed in them. One hundred and twenty honor men will soon be at work on the farm.

President Herbert Hoover has informed Gov. Louis L. Emmerson that he will send a flag to be placed in the sarcophagus room of the Lincoln tomb when the remodeling is completed. Governors of Massachusetts, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Indiana have also signified their intention to send their state flags for the room.

According to reports from Red Cross headquarters at Washington 4,785 families in Illinois were given relief by that organization during the winter in their drought relief work.

The activities of protesting persons and organizations of the state have forestalled the immediate removal of Chanute Air school from Rantoul, Ill., according to a statement recently made by J. Paul Clayton, secretary of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

The judiciary committee of the house, by a vote of 22 to 18, has recommended the passage of the Schnackenberg resolution providing for the reapportionment of the state by a committee of five members of each branch of the general assembly.

Senator Harry Wilson, of Pinckneyville, was elected president of the Illinois Farmers Institute at a meeting of the board of directors held recently. G. A. Lazier was elected vice president in place of Senator Wilson. H. O. Allison, of Springfield, was re-elected secretary.

The department of public welfare plans to sponsor a bill at the present session of the general assembly designed to require that all the school districts shall purchase furniture made in the Illinois penal institutions in cases where price, quality and other conditions are equal. Under the proposed measure school districts which do not adhere to the law would be subject to deductions from their share of the distributive school fund equal to the amount of their purchases. Director Rodney H. Brandon states that such a provision would permit the state increase its school furniture factories and reduce the amount of custom furniture made, thus avoiding conflict with other manufacturers of the state.

Superior court judges of Chicago have suggested that a case be taken to the Supreme Court of Illinois to test the validity of the law requiring women to serve on juries. In Knox county the point has been raised that the law is not yet effective, but will become a law on July 1, 1931, giving the reason as the fact that the constitution provides that unless a law carries an emergency clause it does not become effective until the following July 1.

A member of the county board of supervisors cannot serve also as a clerk or bookkeeper in the county treasurer's office or as an inspector of weights and measures in the state department of trade and commerce, according to an opinion made by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom.

A bill to aid county libraries during their first three years has been introduced by Representative W. C. Chynoweth of Decatur. It was drafted with the advice and approval of W. J. Stratton, secretary of state, and is sponsored by the state-wide extension committee of the Illinois state library association.

Representative Schuyler B. Vaughan has introduced a bill increasing the population basis for election of assistant supervisors as follows: From 4,000 to 4,200 for one assistant supervisor, from 6,500 to 10,000 for two assistant supervisors, and one additional for every 6,000 inhabitants instead of 2,500 as is now the law. The bill also provides for the classification of the members of the county board, so that approximately half of the board will be elected every two years.

Numerous measures having to do with the size and length of motor buses and trucks have been introduced in the general assembly at this session. Representative Claude L. Rew has introduced one reducing the width, while Representative Emmett McGrath cuts the length to 40 feet. In the senate Senator Charles W. Baker has set 45 feet as the maximum length for motor vehicles or vehicles and trailers and Senator Epler C. Mills has set 30 feet for the length.

Senator Earl B. Searcy has introduced bills to take away the power of the department of conservation to purchase land for propagation of game, fish and forests. Instead he advocates the leasing of small tracts of land throughout the state or receiving them by donation to hook up sportsmen and farmers in a conservation program.

Secretary of State William J. Stratton was nursing three broken ribs when he returned to his office March 9, following a trip to Arizona where his family is spending the winter. He fell while rushing to catch a train.

"America went into the slump the last nation in the world; we'll come out before anyone else—and with our standard of wages unimpaired." This is one statement made by former Gov. Edwin P. Morrow in his address at the annual banquet of the John Ericsson Republican League of Illinois held at Springfield. United States Senator Otis F. Glenn also gave an address and Gov. Louis L. Emmerson acted as toastmaster. Three prominent law enforcement officers, Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson of Chicago, and State's Attorney John A. Swanson of Cook county, participated in the program of the league earlier in the day. The newly elected president is Hjalmar Rehn, Joliet, state's attorney of Will county, who succeeds Harry Hanson, superintendent of the division of insurance in Springfield.

Representative Roger F. Little of Champaign was chosen as Republican floor leader in the house at a caucus held March 3.

Director Barney Cohen, of the state department of labor, points to the need of a division of statistics and research in his department, and Representative R. C. Soderstrom has introduced a measure in the house providing for such a division.

A bill aimed to raise the requirements of massage and physiotherapy has been introduced by Senator John Broderick of Chicago requiring practitioners to secure a certificate from the department of registration and education.

COLORFUL VELVET RIBBON GIVES HATS TOUCH OF CHIC

FOUR OF THE NEW SPRING HATS

EITHER you will be telling your milliner or your milliner will be telling you that your hat simply must have a swatch of colorful velvet ribbon on it to give it the proper chic for spring.

This urge for velvet ribbon is going the rounds throughout all fashiondom. Not only is velvet ribbon lending its prettiness to millinery but most of the afternoon chiffon or lace dresses have a bow or a girle or a streamer of velvet somewhere to give them tone and to add to their loveliness.

Study the quartette of new spring hats in the picture and you will discover that each has received its proper quota of velvet ribbon. The lesson taught by the little tricornes, below, is the importance of fine Milan straw in the mode, for of such is this smart hat. The color of the velvet ribbon on the bandeau is turquoise, thus emphasizing the importance of black with a touch of blue.

As to the modish hat to the right at the top, it is made of dainty lace straw in a cinnamon brown. Golden brown velvet ribbon binds the tricorn brim in place, terminating to one side in a piquant little bow.

A soft twisted roll of turquoise velvet ribbon sounds the decorative note for the navy hat shown last. It is worn with a print dress which is also in tones of blue. The torsade of velvet ribbon passes over the brim which rolls so smartly away from the brow.

With her swanky sports frock of pale blue dune oxford (a smart cotton material which launders to perfection), the debutante pictured first as the case may be, an alluring lady-like which a touch of lace and lace only can impart.

Lace garniture, this season, at least in so far as it has to do with the daytime mode, expresses its greatest novelty, perhaps, in connection with sleeve decoration, unusual cuffs and quaint half sleeves or sleevelets if you so please to call them, being made a feature.

Delightfully picturesque effects, such as the wide lace cuffs which grace the frock portrayed, are the wanted type at present. The new lace "sets" especially place accent on deep cuffs which reach halfway or more to the elbow.

The vogue for three-quarter or elbow sleeves in the afternoon frocks makes a soft effect of lace about the wrist almost imperative.

Now that lace is so enthusiastically approved as trimming for street and afternoon frocks designers are vying with each other in achieving enchanting effects. A one-piece black crepe dress which has its upper portion almost entirely of lace is one of the arresting novelties presented. With this dress comes a little bolero of the crepe which may be worn when the costume is to be tuned to street wear.

For trimming touches on the afternoon crepe frocks, alencon lace is by

in the group wears one of the modish paper panama hats with a wattle brim which lifts off the face in the latest approved manner. A narrow navy blue binding finishes the edge of the brim with a cunning little bow of navy velvet ribbon placed at just the proper angle to make it becoming.

As brims and bandeaux increase in number with the approach of spring and summer, velvet ribbons will continue to multiply, for the bandeau hat is ushering in an era of pretty feminine trimming touches.

For Afternoon Wear.

There is about the new afternoon frocks of crepe, satin or light wool far the most wanted kind. A new and perfectly charming effect and one widely employed is that of motifs cut out of the alencon lace, the dainty florals and other patternings applied on a background of cream-colored or flesh-tint chiffon or georgette. Entire yokes and half-sleeves are made of these lace-worked sheer weaves.

Speaking of exquisite lace insets and appliques worked on chiffon for a background reminds of the latest in the new large handkerchiefs which add such a decorative note to the costume, which are fashioned of squares of filmy chiffon with lace applique.

To be a Healthy Woman watch your Bowels!

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh, laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. It doesn't sicken or weaken you. No restrictions of habit or diet are necessary while taking it. But its action is thorough. It carries off the sour bile and poisonous waste. It does everything you want it to do. It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all druggists keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

THE STORY

With his English wife, Catherine, and son, Jeems, Henry Bulain, French settler in Canada in 1749, cultivates a farm adjacent to the Tontour seigneurie. As the story opens the Bulains are returning from a visit to the Tontours. Catherine's wandering brother, Hepsibah, meets them with presents for the family. To Jeems he gives a pistol, bidding him perfect himself in marksmanship. Hepsibah fears for the safety of Bulains in their isolated position.

Concealing himself behind the bole of a tree, Jeems watched them as they passed, so near that a pebble flung by a hoof of one of the horses fell at his side. His courage almost failed him then, for while his hands clenched at the sight of Paul Tache, his heart faltered in its beating as his attention turned from his enemy to Toinette. She had become, all at once, a young lady whom he could easily believe he had never seen before, and the change in her held him for a few moments so forgetful of his own existence that he would have been discovered had one of the three happened to glance in his direction. Toinette was wearing her first riding suit, a gorgeous blue camelot trimmed with silver, just arrived from Quebec. With this she wore a smartly cocked beaver hat which bore a rakish feather, and from under this hat her long dark hair fell in a cascade of carefully made curls, partly restrained in their freedom by two or three red ribbons enmeshed among them. She was superbly aware of the lovely figure she made, and every inch of her body was at a dignified tension as she rode past the place where Jeems was hidden.

After she had gone, Jeems felt an overwhelming sense of littleness and unimportance. For Toinette was no longer Toinette, but a real princess, grown up. And Paul Tache, riding close beside her, with hair powdered and tied and with a red velvet coat that could be seen a mile away, seemed now to be infinitely removed from the plottings which he had conceived against him. He stepped from behind the tree and stooped to pick up the pebble which Toinette's horse had flung at him. He could hear the auctioneer's voice, and others bidding for Lussan's properties. Then came a burst of laughter which rose with unrestrained abandon above all other sound, a blast of merriment which he would have recognized anywhere in the world. Only his Uncle Hepsibah could laugh like that. The sights and excitements of the scene about him would have made for him one of the most thrilling events of his forest-rimmed world, had his heart not been choked with the emotions of impending drama. Yet he did not press his desires by undue haste, and it was half an hour before he found himself close to the one who occupied his thoughts. This happened in such a fortuitous way that Toinette, concealed by the ample forms of Lussan's wife and daughter, was within a foot of his shoulder before he knew it. She did not see him, and he stood with wildly beating heart, breathing the faint perfume from her person, his senses dazed by the nearness of her splendor and his world of vision filled only with a great broad-brimmed hat, an enravishing mass of lustrous curls, a sunset of crimson ribbons, a pair of slim shoulders—and then, his paradise broken by the ugliness of reality, he discovered Paul Tache. The young man was returning from a journey to the barrels, and, when he saw Jeems, a contemptuous smile twisted his lips. It was this look which turned Toinette so that she found Jeems standing beside her, his cap and a package in his hands, his face tensely set as he fought himself into obliviousness of his rival's presence.

He held out his gift to her.

"My Uncle Hepsibah has just come from the English colonies, and he brought me this that I might in turn give it to you. Will you accept it, Toinette?"

He forgot Paul Tache. Spots of red came into his cheeks as Toinette's surprised eyes greeted him. She almost smiled, and as if something made her forgetful of her magnificence and the dignity it imposed, she extended her hand to receive the package. The manner in which she accepted his gift sent the blood racing through his body. The color deepened in her cheeks, and, mistaking this for still greater evidence of the pleasurable thrill he had given her, Jeems was sure she was about to thank him for his gift, when Paul stood beside them. Ignoring Jeems, Toinette's cousin led her away, politely relieving her of the package as they went. It was then Toinette turned to smile at Jeems, in spite of the eyes she knew were watching her. In this same moment her escort allowed the package to drop surreptitiously from his hand.

This act, inspired by a contempt for the forest boy, and urged by a meanness of spirit hidden under a display of wealth and fine clothes, swept Jeems' thought from Toinette, whose nearness of person, surprising beauty, and sweetness of disposition had almost made him forget his one reason for being at Lussan's sale. This weakness in the armor of his intentions was sealed when he saw his present fall to the ground. Toinette became instantly immaterial in the path of a storm of emotion which caught and held him fiercely. He saw only one person where there were two, and that one was Paul Tache. In a brain white with heat, and in eyes blinded to the presence of all living forms except that of the youth who had darkened his mind with bitterness, Toinette ceased to exist for him, and when he sprang forward to recover the bundle, it was not with the thought that he was rescuing it for her, but that it was to be his reason for glorious war when the moment was at hand for him to hurl it in his rival's face.

Detaching themselves from the shifting groups of which they had been a part, Toinette and young Tache strolled to their horses, knowing that many glances followed their elegant departure. Giving themselves a brief time in which to be admired, they sauntered into the gardens back of Lussan's house.

Jeems was only a few steps from Paul and Toinette when they disappeared behind the house. He held back with a feeling of satisfaction when he saw the two going down a path which took them out of sight of any curious eyes that might have watched them. Not until the last flutter of Toinette's skirt was gone did he proceed with the business of following them, and then, like an Indian, he slipped noiselessly along the path and found them standing, somewhat perplexed, at the edge of a soggy and ill-smelling open space where Lussan had built his barn and wherein his cattle and pigs had gathered for so long that one was sure of a precarious and unpleasant footing. Toinette, her chin tilted, a flash of indignation in her eyes as she held up her skirt, with both hands, was on the point of losing her wrath upon her escort for daring to bring her to such a place of defilement when Jeems stepped out from a rim of bushes and confronted them.

His face was pale. His slim body was as taut as a bowstring. His eyes were almost black. He did not see Toinette, scarcely knew that she was in his world, even as her anger gave place to an exclamation of surprise when she saw in his hand the package which he had given her a few minutes before. He approached Paul Tache, and that youth, misinterpreting the slowness of his movement and the bloodless pallor of his face as signs of embarrassment and fear, sought to cover his disgrace in Toinette's eyes by an explosion of haughty protest at being followed and spied upon in this way. Jeems made no reply except to hold out the package. Sight of it choked the words in the other's throat. Jeems' silence and the way in which he continued to extend the package brought a deep color into Paul's face. He and not Jeems was conscious of the amazement in Toinette's countenance and of the intensity of her interest in the situation. He recovered himself swiftly and, with a gulfed change of manner, held out his hand. "Pardon me," he apologized. "It is good of you to bring the package—which I accidentally dropped."

Jeems came a step nearer. "You lie!" he cried, and with a furious movement he hurled the bundle at Tache's face.

The force of the blow sent Paul reeling backward, and Jeems was at him with the quickness and passion of one suddenly transformed by madness. He had never fought with another boy. But he knew how animals clawed and disemboweled. In a hundred ways he had viewed strife and death as the wilderness knew these things. And all that he had witnessed, all that he knew of torture and violence and the desire to maim and kill gave to his action a character of such lively ferocity that it drew a howl of pain from Paul Tache and a shrill little scream from Toinette.

Jeems heard the scream, but it held no significance for him now. His dreams were gone, and Toinette, her presence close to him, her eyes upon the battle just as he had imagined in the thrill of his mental visionings was forgotten in the more vital depths of his interest in the flesh and blood of Paul. In the first attack, his fingers clutched like small iron claws in the folds of Tache's cravat and coat, and the rending of cloth, a splitting asunder of gorgeous material almost to the other's waist, was evidence of the strength behind his assault. He followed this with a fury of scratching and tearing and both went down in the melee. When they rose, Paul heaving himself up with an effort which flung Jeems from him, they were such a sight of muck and stain that Toinette forgot her precious dress and covered her eyes in horror. But she was looking again in an instant, for the spectacle fascinated even as it appalled her. Jeems had landed on his feet with a fist loaded with mud, and this he projected with an aim so accurate that half of Paul's face was obliterated by it, and as he leapt with a roar of rage at his smaller assailant, he was such a shocking contrast to his usual immaculate self that Toinette nearly ceased to breathe. Then she saw and heard what her feminine eyes and instincts could not understand or keep proper count of, a mad twisting and tumbling of bodies, panting breaths, grunts, and finally a clearly audible curse from Paul Tache. With that sound Jeems flew backward and landed on his back.

He was up almost before he had struck, and with his head ducked low like a ram's in a charge, he hurled himself at Tache. This individual, having cleared his eyes sufficiently to perceive the blindness of the other's rush, stepped aside and swung a well-directed blow which again sent Jeems down into the muck. His hand filled itself with this sticky substance a second time, and as he returned to battle he let it fly at Paul. Profiting by experience, Paul dodged skillfully, and the volley passed over his head, spreading in its flight, and fell in its contaminating virulence upon Toinette. She saw her raiment spotted and defiled, and such a sudden fury rose in her that she sprang upon Jeems as he clawed and kicked in a clinch with Paul, and assailed him with all the strength and bitterness of her small fists and biting tongue.

Jeems had seen the tragedy of the misdirected mud, and he knew that Toinette's hands and not Paul's were pulling viciously at his hair. There is a hurt which bears with it a sting of satisfaction, and this emotion pressed upon Jeems as he fought desperately in front and felt himself attacked treacherously from behind. For Paul was accountable for the mishap to Toinette. Had the other not dodged in a cowardly fashion, allowing the stuff to pass on to her, the thing would not have happened. It did not take more than a few seconds for the inspiration of this thought with its apparent justice and truth to fire him with a determination beside which his former resolution sank to insignificance. He was no longer fighting for Toinette's approval, but against her, against Paul Tache, against all the world. Toinette, pulling at his hair, beating at his back, had raised his struggle to epic heights. The strength of martyrdom filled his lean arms and body, and he fought with a renewed fierceness that made his heavier but softer antagonist give way before the punishment, and both went down to earth again. Toinette fell with them, her long skirt impeding the activity of their legs, her big hat hanging like a sunshade over her face, her beautifully made curls tangled and spotted with mud, her hands beating angrily at whichever of the two chanced to come in her way.

Those Happy Victorians

One entry in the diary of Mary Gladstone (afterward Mrs. Drew), daughter of W. E. Gladstone, "Grand Old Man" of Victorian politics, reads:

"Quiet evening at home. I was in my room at 9:30 and heard him and mamma coming up the stairs singing, 'A ragamuffin husband and a ranti-polling wife' at the top of their voices."

"Him" was her father, the prime minister of England, then seventy-four years of age. "Home" was No. 10 Downing Street, official residence of the P. M.—Kansas City Star.

To Preserve Old Prints

Since old prints of flowers, birds and personages are now so popular for framing, it is also worth while to take suitable modern pictures or prints, perhaps from magazines, and antique them with a light coating of liquid wax. This treatment will give them a mellow, old tone and will preserve them. The pictures should be pinned firmly to a flat surface before the wax is applied. Simply framed, they will look charming on the walls of a room.

Lesson for March 29

REVIEW: JESUS THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

GOLDEN TEXT—How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Busy Doing Good.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Busy Doing Good.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus the World's Savior: Preparation and Popularity.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus the World's Savior: Preparation and Popularity.

Since the lessons of the quarter center in one person and have one theme; namely, the world's Savior, the best method of review for senior and adult classes will be to refresh the mind with the principal facts and leading teachings of each lesson. Assignments should be made a week ahead. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for January 4.

John the Baptist was a great preacher. He had a great heritage in his godly parents. Much can be expected from a son of such parents.

Lesson for January 11.

Jesus, as to personality, was divine and yet his human nature developed in the normal way. He waxed strong in body, was filled with wisdom, and God's grace was upon him. Though conscious of his deity, he lived a life of filial obedience.

Lesson for January 18.

John the Baptist came in fulfillment of prophecy, calling upon men to prepare for the coming of the Messiah by repenting of their sins. Baptism was the appointed sign of their repentance. With fine humility, John turned the attention of the people from himself to Christ.

Lesson for January 25.

Jesus was led into the wilderness by the Holy Spirit to be tempted of the Devil. His temptation was Messianic. The purpose was to demonstrate the reality of the incarnation. Jesus went from the place of anointing and heavenly recognition as the Son of God to meet and to spoil the enemy of God and man (Heb. 2:14).

Lesson for February 1.

Jesus demonstrated his power over various diseases and over demons, thus displaying his Lordship. Even while demonstrating his mighty power, he operated through benevolent channels.

Lesson for February 8.

Jesus made clear to the disciples that they would be hated and opposed as they went out into the world with his message. Those who follow Christ must expect opposition and suffering.

Lesson for February 15.

Jesus is the friend of sinners. There is no one so steeped in sin as to be shut out from him. Christ came into the world "to seek and to save that which was lost."

Lesson for February 22.

Jesus' supreme mission was to make known the good news of salvation to a lost world. In spite of the good seed sown by him, only a small portion brought forth full fruitage owing to the unfavorable condition of the soil.

Lesson for March 1.

The greatness of the harvest—man's lost condition moved Jesus to ask the disciples to pray the Lord to thrust out laborers. The real force back of missionary endeavor is prayer. When the church begins to pray about missions, there will be missionaries and money to sustain them.

Lesson for March 8.

The parable of the Good Samaritan shows who is my neighbor and what being a neighbor means. My neighbor is the man needing my help, whether next door or across the world. Being a neighbor is the most important thing for me. To be a neighbor means to be on the lookout for those in need and to give sympathetically the needed help.

Lesson for March 15.

The Bethany home was always open to the Lord. Jesus will come into such homes as will give him welcome. The inspiration of the Bethany home must have greatly helped Jesus as he went out to meet his foes. It is the inspiration of the home which gives men courage to go out and fight the battles of life.

Lesson for March 22.

The parable of the rich fool shows the peril of allowing the heart to be set upon even the fruits of legitimate toil. To seek gold and thus forget God is to play the fool.

The next quarter continues the lessons from the gospel by Luke.

Our Love to God

Our love to God brings us a gleam in earth's darkness to show us whither we are going. It keeps us in sympathy with God's work everywhere. It is our enlistment in the army of good will toward men.—Isaac Edwards.

Men of Genius

Men of genius are often dull and inert in society, as a blazing meteor when it descends to earth, is only a stone.—Longfellow.

TINLEY GARDEN CLUB NEWS

I would rather have one little rose From the garden of a friend, Than to have the choicest flowers When mornstays on earth must end. I would rather have one pleasant word

In kindness send to me, Than flattery when my heart is still And life has ceased to be.—Anon

The last regular meeting of the Tinley Park Garden Club took place Friday, March 20th at the home of Mrs. Harry Mager. There was a large attendance. This proved to be a very interesting meeting. After the business was over, our president had a lovely surprise for each member in the form of a wee pot of living Shamrock. Mrs. Swisher at this time read a beautiful poem "A Bit of Old Ireland". Our program chairman Mrs. J. Klepper read a very fine article on "Soil Culture" which was very instructive. The club report written by Clara for the Ill. Garden Club Book was a master piece. We congratulate her for this fine and interesting outline of our club activities. Our next meeting which will be April 17 will be held at the home of Mrs. B. Kehres. Don't forget that this will be exchange day, so bring what you have, to exchange for what you have not. Our hostess served hot coffee and delicious home made cookies and doughnuts. Everyone had a most enjoyable time.

Easter and Spring Flower Show officially opens at Garfield Park Conservatory.

The West Chicago Park Commissioners announce the opening of the Annual Easter and Spring Flower Show at Garfield Park Conservatory beginning April 4 and continuing until April 19th inclusive.

Every effort is being directed to make this the most beautiful and artistic of all shows held at the Conservatory during the year. During the period of the Flower Show, the doors will remain open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. Visitors will find much to interest them from both a practical and aesthetic standpoint.

Radio listeners may learn of the Conservatory activities by tuning in on the following stations: WJJD Mon. and Thurs. 1:45 to 2 P. M. WCFL Wed. and Fri. 5:50 to 10 p. m. WCHI Wed. and Fri. 3:20 to 3:30 P. M. WGN Wed. 12:20 to 12:30 P. M. Admission is free and every one is most welcome.

Begin Planning Your Garden Now

By Edyth A. Mills

If you did not get your lilies planted last fall, many of them may be planted in the Spring. The Regale Lily, Speciosum and Auratum lilies may be planted as soon as frost is out of the ground.

Go about the garden early this month, and press down the earth about the plants where the frost has heaved it, firming the roots into the soil.

At the end of the month some of the more hardy annuals and perennials may be planted, such as anchusa, gypsophila, gaillardia, celosia, digitalis, daisies, phlox and coleus.

inish pruning of trees, grape vines and shrubs remembering to leave the spring flowering shrubs to be pruned after flowering. Dead wood only is to be removed from the shrubs.

This month the tips of Narcissi tulips and peony are showing but do not uncover the beds, for there will be many freezing nights before spring is here to stay.

The uncovering is best done a bit at a time and on cloudy days, lest the sun's rays prove too much for the tender shoots.

Well rotted cow manure may be put on the borders around the perennials, taking care that it does not come in contact with the young shoots about to come through the ground.

This fertilizer should not be spaded in until the ground is dry enough to crumble.

Dahlia tubers may be started in boxes in good rich soil, and cuttings may be taken from them about the middle of April.

Prune the rose bushes when the weather is not too cold, cutting out all the dead wood.

Bone meal and wood ashes may be dug in around the roots when the ground is dry enough to work.

As soon as frost is out of the ground sweet peas may be sown in a five inch trench.

If you neglected to sow grass seed last fall, do so as early as possible, as the tiny plants will have strength to combat the weeds.

If it was not done in Autumn, the seeds of poppies, larkspur and petunias may be sown now in the open if you wish.

The seeds of these plants are very fine so they had best be mixed with sand.

Last month we ordered our seeds from the attractive catalogs which arrived in our mail bag, and now feel that Spring is just around the corner, so it is Planting Time.

That our precious seeds may grow into the lovely plants and blooms that we have pictured them, let us do our part to make those dreams come true, and plant and tend them carefully, and I assure you they will do their part and more

Tinley P. T. A. News

The meeting opened at 3 o'clock in Mrs. Sandridge's room with a good attendance. Mrs. Gable gave an interesting talk on "Camp Fire Girls" which was much enjoyed as there is some talk of our girls becoming interested in this. Any one wishing to take lessons in the training course can do so by meeting at the Woman's Club in Midlothian on any Monday afternoon at 3 p. m.

Our program chairman, Mrs. Swisher next introduced Rev. Paul Sanders of Orland Park whose subject was "The Boy and Girl in Relation to their Parents". This proved an interesting subject. There were several visitors present from Midlothian, also two new members. The banner was won by the Primary room of which Miss Moringstar is the teacher.

The teachers reported the children enjoying their new books tremendously. Nominations for new officers were presented by the com. Every member is requested to turn out at our next meeting to vote for our officers for the ensuing year. Come and help appoint our committees and officers. We need your ideas and co-operation. We are anticipating additional school rooms to be added to Tinley's school which means more to work for. We shall look for you at our next meeting on April 3rd.

My apology is offered for the late report of this meeting.

MARCH

March winds are blowing But we are pleased with knowing That spring will soon be here, Bringing with it lots of cheer.

Soon there will be many flowers Also, dripping April showers, Soon we'll hear the birdies sing, All of these joys come with Spring —Lillian Leetz

JUNIOR GARDEN CLUB

By Fern Fulton

The Junior Garden Club held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon March 21 at the school house. The lesson was on trees. Mrs. Goessel gave each member a list of all different varieties of trees we also received a Flower Appreciation Contest book, which was presented to us by Mrs. Hug.

The Tinley Park Garden Club presented us with a ten dollar check and which was very greatly appreciated.

Our visitors at this meeting were Mrs. Geo. Hartman and Mrs. Frank Manke.

We also played a Word Hunt Game and wasn't it fun! After this refreshments were served and we all adjourned.

The guests for the next meeting are Mrs. Harold Berg and Mrs. Henry Duff of Blue Island, Ill.

Next regular meeting will be April 4 1931 at the school. Time 1:30 sharp.

WINTER ROBINS

The robins are hopping about on the snow; Their feet are exceedingly cold, I know;

They do not wear shoes, or hose of chiffon, And the worms lie buried beneath the white lawn.

I rise from my bed with strange pity torn, Look up in the trees at the songsters forlorn.

Then hurriedly dress. They MUST quickly be fed; Bread crumbs and crackers on a carpet are spread.

Down fly the birdlings, devouring each crumb, Warning their feet that are stiffened and numb.

Then up in the trees, their throats filled with song, They thank God (and me) the whole day long.
